

11.2. Support of arts and heritage

11.2.4. Public access to green spaces

Taman Akademos

Canteen

Description:

The area of the Faculty of Psychology is surrounded by many trees, including the banyan trees and kapok trees, that make the Faculty of Psychology look beautiful. We also have Taman Akademos that is located between buildings A, B, D and E, various small gardens located in each building, and a quite large garden located behind building D, which we named as Taman Firdaus.

Faculty of Psychology also has green buildings, such as Kantin Sehat that incorporate elements of green building such as using clear glasses around the building to minimize electricity, using water-saving equipment and toilets. There is also a spot for greenery, so the oxygen levels in the café room are maintained as well as beautify the room. We also do not use gas in cooking to reduce carbon and are more environmentally friendly. Other than Kantin Sehat, Faculty of Psychology also has other canteen called Kantin Sejiwa that use open-space as its own theme.